Six Ages is a role-playing game set in the cosmology of the award winning Glorantha world, where heroes live in the Age of Wonders and fight monsters. Fate and destiny run together for heroes. The sixth age is only beginning and stories about it are already being created and written. • New Race: Teshnabie Empire (Winged) • New Class: Adventurer • New Features: Adventurer is faster in battle, and can search for dungeons and baddies • New Features: Now the Adventurer can roll a background check before deciding which class to take • New Class: Deathwalker • New Feature: Deathwalker can now perform DoS (Damage Over Time) Attacks with any of her methods and skills • New Feature: A Deathwalker can now walk along even the most breakable rocks! Her weapons now can also penetrate quite thin materials • New Skill: Armiger has gained the ability to turn a target into an ally • New Skill: She can now cast a similar spell to Armiger, but with a slightly different name • New Skill: Now Armiger can block attacks. A cost of 5 temp HP, but if successful, the attack is blocked. Similar to a Parry • New Skill: Now, a well placed spell can replace a standard attack for a dangerous amount of damage You can download the demo of Six Ages: Ride Like The Wind which will be released on Steam on January 24th! I'm really looking forward to this game. My players are either going to be ridding the world on ponies like Rosie and Gerome of Thundercloud on a quest to tame those pesky beavers or going to live in the Outlands as outlaws like Hester and Lou. Can't wait to get going on this game. I hope, but don't count on, it is a great game. I'd love to see the hot little Teshnabies ride horses in a game, but with the races, weapons, armor, etc. I guess like a cross between D&D and D&D 4th ed. I am going to try to be a little more active on this game when the full release hits the 19th. It is going to be a blast to be honest. Not to mention, I am going to try and start one of the new races just because I want to and the best way to do that is to read

Ancient ruins still dot the American Midwest and that's where many archaeological enthusiasts dream of making their first discovery. But so far, the average person's chance of seeing some of these relics is actually pretty slim. Even with reliable theories like Neo-Paleo and the Great Lakes evidence, America has some big secrets that we're yet to learn. Join us to see 10 amazing locations that show how society's greatest thinkers once called the Midwest their home. Reader Email: "Hey! What's new in Pizza Hunt! How To Hunt Pizza (And Not Die Doing It) - Soundtrack:

Synopsis Pizza Hunt is a crazy arcade-style game where one or more players try to eat as much pizza as possible, satisfying the urge to be surrounded by pie as they randomly eat through a string of pizza shops across the country. For some reason, the pizza isn't always cooked and frozen, and so every bite comes at the cost of consuming terrible forms of nutrition. Sometimes, you'll find foods that don't even exist because, literally, no one knew what they were. If the one and only goal of the game is to eat as much pizza as you can, then you and your friends are going to eat your way across America like an invasive species, spreading fast but never quite getting caught for you know what. Because, after all, you have an "eating organism" on your tail, invading and devouring pies at a relentless rate. Review An incredible concept! One of the best things I've seen about Nintendo Switch and I really wanted to try it out. I didn't think I'd feel nostalgia after seeing such arcade-like games like Pac-Man and that was half way through the game, but I really did actually feel like I was back in the arcades of the 1980's. But what I didn't expect was to be totally immersed as I looked through the menu to select which pizza shop we would head to next. As a student, we had to plan our weekly Pizza Night plans and it was always one of our top choices. Especially if I had an issue at home, I'd often find myself in a headache at a later time trying to figure out the day and one of our group had a zero tolerance for being late. And there was always a time, week after week, where someone needed to stay at home and be extra-sure to get a pizza to eat while they waited for the others. So that was what our theme was, and that's why I needed to play Pizza Hunt. It's absurd. You need to randomly choose a different pizza shop that you want to go to, and then you need to eat as much pizza as you can from there, meeting up in the pizza tournament following the completion of the mission, and picking up more licenses as you go. The feeling is truly breathtaking as the story of your quest unfolds and the mission starts, simply rewarding you for all your struggles while staring me with the
