You are required to install the Installation package to the directory /opt/labcenter/redhat/ if you have not already installed Labcenter 16. If you've already installed Labcenter 16, then you can skip this step. Use this form to apply for the written exam for the following license types: Master and Special Electrician, Master Plumber, Master Fire Suppression Piping Contractor, Master Rigger, Master Sign Hanger, High Pressure Boiler Operating Engineer, Oil Burner Equipment Installer, Tower/Climber Crane Rigger, Site Safety Manager, Private Agency Elevator Director/Inspector, and Gas Work Qualification. Labcenter provides the lab management system Red Hat Lab Manager (RLM) and a series of packages that can be installed on your Red Hat Enterprise Linux system using any supported package manager. Package versions prior to the Initial Release of Labcenter 16 are not supported. The recommended approach to installing Labcenter 16 is to use the automatic installation feature of the RLM installation package. Before you install Labcenter 16, you must install Red Hat Enterprise Linux (RHEL) 8 or 9. These packages are available from https://yum.redhat.com/. After installation, start RLM by running the following command on your Red Hat Enterprise Linux system: sudo rlm_init Your installation of Labcenter 16 requires access to the network where you will need to configure the Labcenter server to be able to access the shared data files or content you have created within Labcenter. This network may be local, or the network may span multiple machines. 5ec8ef588b
